SODBUSTERS SYMPOSIUM

Our speakers:

Steven Chamblee is Chief Horticulturist for Chandor Gardens in Weatherford, TX, consulting editor & author for Neil Sperry's GARDENS, writes an e-column "Native Son." Steven uses his collective experiences to bring vibrant artistic expression to the garden. He will give two of our presentations.

Kent Daniel purchased his first orchid from a big box store and had no understanding of its culture. Kent made plenty of common orchid mistakes which eventually led to the demise of his exotic beauty, but that only challenged him to learn more about orchids and their basic requirements. He found a world of orchid growers in the Houston Orchid Society who were willing to share their wealth of knowledge. Kent now has a greenhouse full of orchids: Cattleyas, Phalaenopsis, Dendrobiums, Oncidiums and Cypripediums. Kent is a person who sees God's hand in creation and is amazed in the beauty He created for our enjoyment.
